

Trufa wall

davidpompa

A wall handblown glass lamp that speaks through its contrast and geometrical forms. Both classic and contemporary. Its position allows to appreciate the shape repetition inside out, creating a geometrical yet poetic view with a multilayered warm light effect. Made from recycled glass, it transforms bottles into a texturized surface with encapsulated air bubbles, combined with high-end coated metal. A statement on its own, it reflects its character bathing its light into the wall and the space that surrounds it.
